

The City Upon The City

The city built upon the city comes into light when the street lights twinkle when silence decides to break its noise when the smell of the dust is all you can taste All you can touch.

The city built upon the city Reveals itself only to those willing to see what is profoundly hidden only to those whose ears are still open to whisper only to those few who inhale past and present to exhale future.

The city built upon the city will tempt you to journey back in time, will teach you again how to ride your old bike.
The city upon the city
will make you want to stroll again around the old city

With
new fresh air-

take a deep breath...