The School of English

Aristotle University of Thessaloniki (AUTH) is the largest University in Greece serving a vast array of scientific fields. There are ten Faculties which comprise forty Schools, and one School under the administration of the rectorate authorities. Our School forms part of the Faculty of Philosophy which was founded in 1925. Initially founded as a University Institute of Foreign Languages in 1951, it acquired its present status as School of English in 1983 and is currently one of the eight Schools which constitute the Faculty of Philosophy.

Dean of the Faculty of Philosophy

Konstantinos Bikos

Professor, School of Philosophy and Education
Dean's office: Room 413, Faculty of Philosophy, New Building.

The School of English consists of four departments:

- Theoretical and Applied Linguistics
- English Literature and Culture
- American Literature and Culture
- Translation and Intercultural Studies

The School of English offers:

- a BA Honours degree in English Language and Literature after the completion of at least 8 academic semesters of study
- an MA and a PhD degree as part of its Graduate Studies Programme. Detailed information is available online at <http://www.enl.auth.gr>.

Student Advisor

For any enquiry or advice concerning the progress and successful completion of their studies, students can submit their requests electronically at <http://my.enl.auth.gr/advisor/advisor.htm>. The School Advisors for the academic year 2022-23 are Dr Athanasios Georgakopoulos and Dr Louisa Desilla.

School Website

Through the website of the School of English Language and Literature www.enl.auth.gr students can check out the following:

1. The structure and staff of the School and all contact information for both the teaching and administrative staff
2. Undergraduate and Postgraduate Studies: from programme structure and internal regulations to timetables and descriptions of courses on offer
3. The exchange programmes and international agreements in which the School participates
4. The research conducted in the School through workshops and various online platforms
5. The conferences, various academic activities and the creative teams of the School.

An effective way to obtain information about what goes on in the School is through the 'announcements' websites (School / Faculty). These websites are updated daily and should be checked regularly.

For study issues and academic guidance you can contact the Student Advisor through the relevant contact form (Undergraduate Studies → Student Advisor). A comparable contact form for the submission of comments and suggestions you may have is available through the website section titled 'Comments – Remarks'.

Very useful websites are: <https://sis.auth.gr/> (Student Information Systems), <https://www.auth.gr/mobile> (AUTH implementation of electronic services through mobile devices), <https://it.auth.gr/en> (IT centre).

The School Library

The library of the School of English is located on the 3rd floor of the New Building of the Faculty of Philosophy (room 308) and is open on weekdays. The collection consists of 32,000 volumes, which cover English and American literature, the English language, linguistics, theatre, film, and translation studies. It also provides access to bibliographic databases and a large number of academic journals through the internet.

Information: tel. 2310 99 7459, e-mail: enliblibrary@enl.auth.gr, website: <http://www.enl.auth.gr/lib>

The Language Development Laboratory

The Language Development Laboratory (room 308Δ) aims to cover educational and research needs at undergraduate and postgraduate levels in the following areas:

- Second language development and language processing (comprehension and production)

- Investigation of developmental stages, grammatical properties of first and second language, and variables which affect linguistic development
- First language acquisition in Greek by normally developing children and children with language problems.

Information: <http://www.enl.auth.gr/langlab>

The Phonetics Laboratory

Research and teaching on the production, acoustics and perception of speech is carried out in the Phonetics Laboratory of the School (room 308Δ). The Lab is equipped with several state-of-the-art experimental systems, including the KAY CSL system for the acoustic analysis of speech as well as electropalatography and ultrasound for the investigation of lingual articulation. The lab is used for the teaching and practice of students attending undergraduate and postgraduate courses in phonetics, as well as for research on normal and pathological speech.

The Technical Support Centre

The Technical Support Centre of the School of English (room 308Δ) is used for:

- Technical support of the computers and computer network within the School
- Creation and maintenance of the website that promotes the School and its activities
- Attention to the particular needs of staff members related to recording, teleconferencing, digitisation, printing, etc.
- IT technical support.

Information: tel. 2310 99 7422

The Resource Centre

The Resource Center of the School of English is located in the New Wing of the Faculty of Philosophy in the PC lab area, and it is open four days a week (visit the website of the School of English for opening hours). It aims to support students' Teaching Practice, which is compulsory for all students of the department, to help them improve their language skills and to provide material for conducting research in the field of language education.

Specifically, the Center has:

- a rich collection of textbooks and audiovisual materials for teaching English as a foreign language
- literature books for English language learners (incl. graded readers)
- teaching materials designed by students of the Department
- dictionaries and thesauruses
- books on teacher training and teacher education
- magazines for teachers of English, etc.

The above material is constantly being updated and is available to students of the department who can either borrow it or use it on the premises.

Information: tel. 2310 99 7417. Directors: Marina Mattheoudakis and Thomi Dalpanagioti.

American Studies Resource Portal

This portal provides: links to all academic departments in Greece which offer courses in American Studies; information about undergraduate and graduate courses in American culture, literature and politics; course outlines and bibliographical data; list of MA theses and PhD dissertations completed and in progress in American Studies nationwide; news about conferences and events; HELAAS activities and publications; online links to resources, libraries and research centres with emphasis on American Studies in Europe and the US; access to the online creative writing magazine Echoes of the Department of American Literature.

Departments and Programmes of Study

Programmes of study, compulsory courses and course codes

The School of English offers an array of courses, compulsory as well as optional ('elective'). Students can choose courses in the following fields of study:

- English Language
- Applied Linguistics
- Interdisciplinary Linguistics
- Theoretical Linguistics
- American Literature and Culture
- English Literature and Culture
- Translation and Intercultural Studies.

Each course carries a certain number of credits according to the European System of Accumulation and Transfer of Credits (ECTS). For successful completion of the BA course of study, a student is required to accumulate a total of 240 ECTS. There is a certain number of ECTS each student can accumulate each semester. The maximum of ECTS credit units is 30 per semester.

Foreign language courses offered by the AUTH Centre for Foreign Language Teaching (www.lance.auth.gr) are acknowledged as electives. The number of credit units for these courses is determined by the AUTH Foreign Language Centre and may differ from the units which correspond to the courses of the School of English Language and Literature. Accordingly, it is possible to count as electives foreign language courses offered to students who study at Aristotle within the frame of some European educational exchange programme (ERASMUS).

Course Codes

In the 'List of Courses' included in this guide courses, offered by the Department of Theoretical and Applied Linguistics are marked as 'Ling', those offered by the two Literature Departments are marked as 'Lit' and those offered by the Department of Translation and Intercultural Studies are marked as 'TIS'. In addition to the field descriptor, each course has a four-digit code number. The first digit indicates the general area as follows:

Ling 1: English Language
Ling 2: Theoretical Linguistics
Ling 3: Applied Linguistics
Ling 4: Interdisciplinary Linguistics
Ling 5: Research in Linguistics

Lit 5: Introductory Courses in Literature
Lit 6: English Literature and Culture
Lit 7: American Literature and Culture
Lit 9: Research in Literature

TIS 1: Introductory Course
TIS 2: Theoretical and Applied Course
TIS 3: Practical Workshop
TIS 4: Technology-related Course
TIS 5: Research Course

Res1: Courses in Methodology of Research

These are shorthand descriptions of broad areas. For example, 'Theoretical Linguistics' includes General, Descriptive, Comparative and Historical Linguistics. The second digit indicates level of difficulty (100 for the first year of studies, 200 for the second year, etc.); the final two digits identify and group different courses and normally indicate continuity or order.

'C' marks compulsory courses and 'E' elective courses. For example, Lit6-260C indicates a compulsory English Literature course (Lit6) for second year (-2) students. It belongs to a group of courses that relate to English Literature and Culture at different periods of time and are numbered consecutively, i.e. 260, 261, etc.

Academic Terms/Semesters

Teaching starts at the end of September / early October for the winter semester and in late February for the spring semester. Teaching is carried out in English. Each semester runs for 13 weeks of teaching and is followed by an exam period (in January-February and in June, respectively). There is a re-sit examination period (for both semesters) in September. The exact start and end dates of the semesters and examination periods are specified by decision of the Dean of the Faculty of Philosophy. Related announcements are posted on the School website.

Registration

Following the guidelines issued by the Ministry of Education and Religious Affairs, those succeeding at the Panhellenic Exams of 2022 shall register electronically with the School of English using the link <https://eregister.it.minedu.gov.gr> and the same password they had used for accessing the Application-Entry Form.

Enrolment in Compulsory and Elective Courses

At the beginning of each semester (winter or spring) and before registration begins, announcements and instructions regarding the registration procedure are made on the School website. All students, irrespective of year of entry register via the electronic system for the compulsory (regarding 1st and 2nd-year students) and elective courses (regarding 3rd and 4th-year students) offered by the School within strict time limits set by the School and the School's Registrar.

The course selection statement, filled in and submitted by students electronically, contains courses that make up the student's semester timetable. Submitting the course selection statement is a necessary condition for the student's participation in the end-of-semester examinations (January / Feb. and June). Enrolment in the elective courses can only be done electronically by following the instructions available on the School website <http://www.enl.auth.gr>.

Please note that the 3 elective courses required outside the core courses (see 'Structure of the BA in English Language and Literature' below) can be selected from the School's elective courses on offer, or from electives from other Schools belonging to the Faculty of Philosophy. For elective courses from other Schools, students must submit a statement to the Registrar within certain time limits set by the School Registrar.

IMPORTANT NOTE: Students should consult the semester timetable so as not to select courses taught at the same time and day as their examinations may coincide.

Note that: Students admitted to the School of English with the percentage of special categories or transfer may attend first semester courses with compulsory attendance only after their registration process has been completed. Given that there is a limited number of allowable absences for such courses, if the registration process is delayed and, as a consequence, the students in question have exceeded the number of allowable absences, they will have to enrol in these courses again at a later stage of their studies.

Coursebooks/Textbooks

Each student is entitled to free textbooks throughout his/her four years of study (if and when available). The exact number of textbooks is determined by the relevant regulations and can not exceed the number of courses required for graduation. Information about textbook distribution points as well as special course requirements is announced on the School website.

Sign-off Procedure

Students may sign off a class only during the period that electronic registration is open, as announced on the School's website. After that time, signing off is impossible. Needless to say, the student must return any textbooks they have received for this particular course.

Course Attendance and Assessment

Attendance is compulsory for first-year workshops as well as for some other more advanced courses. Courses with compulsory attendance are highlighted in yellow in the section 'List of Courses' further down in the Student Guide. The conditions and the number of allowable absences (for workshops) are announced by the tutor at the beginning of each semester. Students cannot register in two courses taught at the same time and day.

Participation in exams is also required at the end of each semester (for most courses) and a re-sit exam is scheduled for September each year. The exact type of assessment may vary depending on the course and may involve written or oral exams, research papers or critical essays.

Assessment is generally based on formal written end-of-semester examinations; students failing an exam in February or June are given a second chance in September. The method of assessment by mid-term exams and term papers is used in a number of courses; also a combination of the two methods is not unusual. The choice of method of assessment is specified in individual course outlines distributed at the beginning of each semester.

The grading scale used is 0-10, with 5 as the minimum passing grade.

Students must display academic integrity by firmly avoiding plagiarism in their work. Plagiarism is the practice of copying another person's work or ideas and presenting them as your own or paraphrasing them without fully acknowledging their source. Further information can be found on the website of the Central Library: <https://www.lib.auth.gr/en/node/1473>.

Course Timetable

The teaching timetables for the winter and the spring semester are announced in September and January, respectively. Relevant information includes the names of tutors involved, the days and times of teaching and the rooms for each class. Exam dates are announced towards the end of each semester, as soon as this is possible. For this information and for their placement in groups when it comes to courses of the 1st and 2nd year, students should regularly consult the School website.

B. Elective Courses

Students are required to accumulate a remaining 18 ECTS (corresponding to 3 courses) from elective courses. They may opt for elective courses within the School of English and/or foreign language courses offered by the Centre for Foreign Language Teaching Faculty. They may also opt for courses offered by Departments/Schools mainly within the Faculty of Philosophy and in the Faculty of Education, provided that these are relevant to the courses taught in the School. A list of appropriate courses is made available at the beginning of each registration period.

Please note that Modern Greek is a compulsory course for all foreign students during the four years of their studies.

Credit Accumulation and Graduation

Students may monitor the progress of their studies online. Students expecting to graduate at the end of an exam period need to notify the Registrar's office electronically. Graduation dates are set by the Dean's office and are announced on the School website.

IMPORTANT NOTE: Students after their 6th semester of studies should regularly check whether the ECTS credits accumulated meet the specific graduation criteria in effect during students' year of entry so as to ensure that they have completed their course groups with the appropriate courses (cf. course codes). Problems encountered just before the graduation ceremony, such as an insufficient number of ECTS credits leading to postponement of graduation, will, thus, be avoided. Students should consult the Course Guide of their year of entry, regularly check relevant announcements posted on the website of the School and contact the Secretariat in case of serious problems and incongruities. Students returning from ERASMUS programs should pay particular attention because many such courses are credited with less than 6 ECTS credits. Students are solely responsible to check their credit accumulation during their studies and ensure they meet the criteria for graduation.

European and International Programmes

The School of English participates in the European student-and-staff-exchange programme Erasmus+. Since 1989, when programmes such as ERASMUS, LINGUA, TEMPUS, SOCRATES began to take effect, the School of English at Aristotle University has received many students from a wide range of European universities and has sent out even more.

Below, you can see the names of faculty members involved as coordinators in the network programmes, along with the names of specific institutions that have an exchange agreement with the School of English during 2022-2027. For additional information and ECTS coordinators, you may consult http://www.enl.auth.gr/erasmus_en.htm.

The selection procedures take place in the spring semester. For more information, please contact the individual coordinator in the programme of your choice, or visit the Department of European Educational Programmes (<https://eurep.auth.gr/en>).

International Agreements

In addition to the Erasmus+ agreements, the School of English participates in several bilateral exchange agreements with university institutions worldwide. All agreements are administered by the AUTH International Relations Office (<http://international-relations.auth.gr/en>). A list of the available agreements can be found at this link alongside relevant links for further details.

Erasmus Placement

Within the framework of the European Erasmus+ Programme, students of all levels (undergraduates, postgraduates, PhD candidates) can participate in the practical training mobility scheme at various Universities, Companies and Organizations abroad. It is possible for students to visit a University as part of their Erasmus Placement, even if there is no prior student exchange agreement between AUTH and the host institution.

For all relevant information, please visit the Department of European Educational Programmes website (www.eurep.auth.gr).

Useful Services for Students

Career Services Office

The Career Services Office (CSO) of the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki was established in 1997, following the model of other career services offices already in operation in universities abroad. Its main goal is to provide its services to students and graduates of the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki in order to facilitate their successful transition from the university to the work environment and help them search for a job which corresponds to their qualifications, skills and the experience they have gained, providing them with the necessary information about further education and job opportunities. The information provided concerns studies, studies programmes offered by universities in Greece and abroad, scholarships and financial endowments, student mobility programmes in Europe, education seminars, conferences, workshops and European Union subjects.

With regards to employment opportunities, the main areas of information concern: vacancies in the private and public sector, internship programmes, data related to labour market and the employment of the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki graduates, employers and professional bodies (such as societies, chambers), as well as the support of business plans. Moreover, the CSO provides counseling services with regards to compiling a CV, submitting reference letters, developing job interview skills, career planning and applying job search techniques. Each academic year, the Office holds workshops and seminars to provide anyone interested with information about the abovementioned areas.

Today the Career Services Office of the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki consists of one central office and 3 branches:

- Central Office (only for administrative issues), Administration building (1st floor)
Tel.: +30 2310 99 5314-5, 2310 99 7340, Fax: 2310 99 5312
- Branch Office I, Central Library (ground floor)
Tel.: +30 2310 99 9320, 2310 99 9395, Fax: 2310 99 9390
- Branch Office II, Faculty of Law, Economics and Political Sciences Building (1st floor, room 114, over the Secretariat of the School of Economics)
Tel.: +30 2310 99 6644, -46, -47, 2310 99 7350, Fax: 2310 99 6645

Department of Studies

The Department of Studies is part of Aristotle University's Directorate for the Coordination of Academic Units. Its responsibility is to maintain a complete and updated record of all legislation (laws, ministerial decisions and circulars) pertaining to undergraduate and postgraduate studies and to coordinate its uniform implementation. Also, it is responsible for the completion of all proceedings under current legislation on education, issues of Special Master Scholars and for subjects of foreign students. Each September it provides a Survival Guide, which supplies valuable information and tips for all students, especially the 1st year undergraduates. The 2016 Guide is available here (only in Greek):

Observatory for the Academic Progress of Students belonging to Vulnerable Social Groups

The role of the Observatory is to assist:

- Students with disabilities
- Foreign students
- Minority students, foreign students of Greek descent or repatriate students
- As well as any other category of students who face problems hindering their studies.

The above mentioned students can inform directly the Observatory – and also inform the Student Advisors of their Department – of any serious problem that they might face in the course of their studies, which arise either because of their disability or because of cultural or language or health problems.

Information: Tel./Fax: 2310 99 5360, e-mail: stud-observ@ad.auth.gr, URL: <http://acobservatory.web.auth.gr>

Volunteer Committee

The Volunteer Committee has as its main goal to promote to the members of the university community of AUTH the idea of volunteering as a contemporary social demand.

With this aim, the Volunteer Committee having also as its motivation the improvement of the daily life of everyone working in Aristotle University –students and teaching and administrative staff– in areas such as student affairs, environmental issues and social aid, encourages all members of the university community to take initiative by submitting ideas and suggestions.

To this end, some Networks of Volunteers in Departments and Faculties have already been created, consisting of a faculty member and a student, in order to develop a body of volunteers in each Department/Faculty of AUTH.
